++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry with sunny spells, but rather cold.

Today:
A largely dry day with sunny spells and light winds, but the odd light shower is possible near the Norfolk and Suffolk coast. It will also be rather cold, with patches of frost, fog and low cloud in the morning. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Another cold evening with frost and patchy fog forming under occasionally clear skies. Fog is likely to clear later in the night as it becomes generally cloudy and increasingly breezy. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Saturday:
Cloudy and breezy with a band of rain moving eastwards. Initially this may fall as sleet or snow, but is likely to turn increasingly to rain before clearing later. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday and Monday will be largely dry with spells of sunshine. Cold overnight however, with areas of frost. Cloudy and windy on Tuesday with outbreaks of rain.
